

BankruptcyMisconduct must first make it clear that we believe the majority of the hard working lawyers within our DOJ are honest public servants whose true loyalties are to the Constitution. It is only the few attorneys within the DOJ who act to enrich their relations and affiliations while otherwise pretending to act as loyal public servants that we detest.

Unfortunately, as the complications of the real world become better known to the American Citizenry, such as is entertainingly presented by reality shows Survivor & The Mole, there is a constant tendency by man to seek advantage over others. That is, to gain something of value by means other than merit. These reality shows hold "challenges" which grant some sort of immunity or prize to a winner. But we all see time after time that the ultimate winners of the overall contest are never determined by merit. Instead we see that the ultimate winners are determined by their ability to conspire, to setup allegiances where some contestants pledge to vote for and protect each other. Just a TV show depicting a milder version of how organized crime families operate within our society.

Players in any sort of "game" figure out that there is always a shortcut around the absolute measure of virtue, production, or hard work. The word "Game" does not imply simplistic or childlike, but merely a contest where something of value is distributed. Thus, there has always been public officials who view their role as in a game, and seek to enrich themselves or their associates. Our founding fathers knew this, and our laws already have numerous prohibitions against such. We don't hold a grudge against sport stars or rock stars who make many millions of dollars based upon merit.

But there are countless neo-clever members of our society whose hunger for riches far exceeds their talent and willingness to work hard. Absent corruption, our economy is fairly efficient. However, there is an evil and selfish segment of our society who want wealth at any cost, and they see the easiest shortcut to wealth is the utilization of centuries old techniques of corruption. And many of them probably really believe their own hype, and believe that they are smart. No, they are just of very low morals and deceive that nation as they engorge themselves on ill-gotten gains.

Sadly, the DOJ has a history of this very type of corruption. In fact, the DOJ's leader Attorney General John D. Ashcroft states:

- "No country -- certainly not the United States -- is free of corruption. In the real world of limited resources, we know that we can only detect, investigate and prosecute a small percentage of those officials who are corrupt."

- " I remain convinced that there is no more important area in the fight against corruption than the challenge for us within the law enforcement and justice sectors to keep our own houses clean.

Remember: there are only a few bad apples in the DOJ bunch. Just as there have been a few bad apples in our Legislature. It is only a matter of time before honest members of Congress and within the DOJ start to ferret out and punish the corruption within. And this process is already beginning as you can see by clicking on the Conyers, Nadler, Watt demand to Attorney General Michael B. Mukasey

Q: (We have been asked)

"What is a government lawyer currently, or formerly, within the DOJ supposed to do when there was absolutely no benefit received or role played in the decision process of witnessed conduct that looks, in retrospect, to have been corruption?"

A: First, we are not lawyers and you probably ought to get legal advice independent of your DOJ hierarchy . Failing to report a crime against the government is itself a serious crime, as is assisting, directing, inducing, or protecting in any stage of a cover-up. See Title 18 U.S.C. 's 1001, 2, 3 & 4 ... You should cover the bases for yourself! La ser Haas

Send me an email, with a "that day" pay phone number to call not connected to your work, home or cell. As you can see, over the years, the name of helping parties is never revealed and I am already at high risk. You do not even have to reveal your name, etc, if such extra protection is necessary.

You can do so from a public internet site anonymously, just keeping a record of the eMail name from which you sent the materials. We believe that you will have a defensible position as having disclosed, and done so anonymously under fear of retribution from the organized crime participants, as has been established by the death threat advice in the Worldcom Bankruptcy. If nothing comes of it, you are safe. If Federal Special Prosecutor comes around and you don't have any CYA notifications to someone like Haas, bankruptcyMisconduct, a Congressional Committee, or the OPR, then you might as well prepare to find a new lover in prison. If you don't give up the big dogs, you may very likely go down yourself.

Subject: Congress seeks GAO report from the Dept of Justice where the DOJ is refusing to cooperate

Date: Tue, 1 Jul 2008 1:15 pm

There are many things going on now, in the quest to see the facts.

Congress, this week, issued many subpoenas to the Dept of Justice.

The Dept of Justice is refusing to provide the all the facts to Congress, as if the Unit of American government is not accountable. This is highly specious and extensively egregious activity that is, at the barest of minimums - hypocritical; as the Dept of Justice is the unit of authority to enforce accountability.

So Congress sent a letter to the Dept of Justice demanding accountability be an open book (here)

Efforts to seek to silence the Truth, under any pretense, by our government, violates all the basic frameworks of our Constitution and the soul of who we are.

The question now turns to the issue of "what are they hiding"?

The destruction or withdrawal of evidence implies mendacity of the highest kind.

With the recent shut down of the Public Corruption Unit in CA and that US Attorney's threats of intimidation to career prosecutors (here), after receiving formal complaints about Dept of Justice personnel Ethics violations (here), compounded by the fact that all OIG's were given greatly authority, except over the Dept of Justice acts. adds fuel to the flame of the moment.

Senator Feinstein also sent an Official letter to AG Mukasey asking him to explain the specious dismantling of the Public Corruption Unit (here)

Where it appears the new Law is undermining the authority of the DOJ OIG's office (here) with the AG and CA US Attorney's remark, that the disbanding of the Public Corruption unit under the bogus pretense that it was to make the Dept of Justice more efficient (here and here), our Dept of Justice seeks to bury itself into its' own sea of disparagement.

<http://judiciary.house.gov/Media/PDFs/Conyers-Nadler-Watt080625.pdf>

The Delaware US Attorney's office failed to disclose a serious, egregious, conflict of interest issue when a local law firm admitted to supplying more than 16 false affidavits that deliberately deceived the DE Federal Court.

Instead of investigating and prosecuting admitted acts that are perjury and fraud on the court the Delaware Dept of Justice gave illegal, implied, blanket, immunity to a cohort law firm that also supplied more than 16 false affidavits as the creditors counsel planted a paid associate in as CEO of the Debtor .

The illegal efforts at immunity was offered to only one law firm (TBF) as the DE Dept of Justice declined to even mention the name or violations of the other "connected" law firm (MNAT).

If that was not enough heinous behavior the DE Dept of Justice is actually utilizing taxpayer dollars acting as an appellee with the wayward law firms defending the right to give the illegal immunity, where the DE Dept of Justice personnel is joined by the Washington DC EOUST General Counsel, supplying their own bogus brief to the 3rd Cir Court of appeals as the Dept of Justice continues to refuse to mention the law firms acts, as if such were a cardinal sin.

In an act of imprimatur overkill the Dept of Justice place four (4) separate authoritative names, Asst US Trustee Andrew Vara, Dept of Justice Trial Attorney Mark Kenney, US Trustee Region 3 Kelly B Stapleton and the General Counsel from Washington DC, Roberta Deangelis all named upon the brief seeking to dismiss the case speciously remarking in a footnote that it will Not address the issues of the MNAT firm.

Now it is discovered that the US Attorney in Delaware was a partner with the law firm in question (see resume here) and the reward for being a complicit party in the efforts to cover up is a huge push to force the confirmation of the nomination of the US Attorney to be a Delaware Federal District Court Justice that begs the question how high does the cover up go?

Once confirmed Colm F Connolly purportedly cannot be removed for his acts of failing to notify the Public Integrity Section of his former partnership with a firm that should be under heavy investigation.

Combine this with the recent resignation of the Region 3 Trustee (here) that is most alarming due to the fact, the very person who replaced the Region 3 Trustee is the person that was replaced Dec 22, 2004, when the initial investigation into the fraud and perjury began. Roberta DeAngelis was the Acting General Counsel in Washington DC and was one of the persons the FBI and Office of Professional Responsibility instructed the eToys shareholders to contact when the US Trustee's office is involved in questionable behavior.

For not even a Federal Justice has the authority to remove a United States Trustee agent.

Then, one week after the press release remarked upon the replacing of Kelly Stapleton the FBI raided the Office of Special Counsel's home and operation locale for the destruction of whistleblower files against Government personnel (please see WSJ Law Blog on FBI raid of Scott Bloch's home, office and seizure of his computer's/ files here)

While we do not know if the files about the eToys case and the related issues were destroyed, we can document abundantly that they were received everywhere and the only question that remains is where is the Office of Review and Oversight ("ORO") case number(s) for the eToys sagas?

Now Congress has sent Subpoena's to the DOJ and has condemned the errant practices and assembly line justice, with political motivations of Dept of Justice prosecutions. (here)

The Delaware Dept of Justice has breached their fiduciary duty, permitting the confessed perpetrators of perjury and fraud, to continue keeping the keys to the vault that they are fleeing, with the $800 million dollar issue in the NY Sup Ct (case 601805/2002) being handled by the law firm that gained its Court approval to do the job through a now confessed false affidavit let me take that back, the TBF law firm is no longer in existence, we documented that they were of a revoked status by the State of NY, when they were defending their false affidavits, with cheeky excuses of inadvertent neglect. One part of TBF went to Olshan and Frome and another part, that is handling the $800 million issue in NY, went to Dreier LLP, (as for the Bonacquist faction of Traub Bonacquist & Fox, the NY Bar states that you must contact the US Embassy in the Philippines).

It is only a matter of short time, before Congress digs into the prosecutions that were abated, whether political or otherwise. Then we shall surely see questioning of US Attorney Colm Connolly, the US Trustee General Counsel turned Region 3 Trustee (over Delaware) and the Dept of Justice Trial Attorney, Mark Kenney who signed the obstructive Stipulation to Settle that gives the illegal implied, immunity. While Mark Kenney also obstructed justice in the successful request to the court to strike and expunge our proofs of another $100 million cash fraud issue in the KB bankruptcy case.

Further investigations will also dig into why Mark Kenney obstructed justice in asking the SEC Bankr Fraud Division in Atlanta not to send the Official InterGovernmental letter for recommending an Official Investigation.

One of the SEC persons tried to defend the issue and protect Mark Kenney, stating that such a request was never going to be made. When we informed the SEC that we recorded the statement this has promoted recent dialogue with the SEC's OIG office.

This is an issue of National importance here, as the entire system of justice integrity of the judicial process is at stake.

It is amazing that eToys cannot effect justice where other cases across the country cite eToys on Fraud on the Court issues. The Baron's bankruptcy case in Florida cited eToys to reopen a closed case due to fraud on the court, while the NY bankruptcy court cited eToys in the case of Balco Estis to disgorge and disqualify.

If they, whom are paid to police and protect, violate their oath to defend the Constitution can do this maliciousness, out in the open, so blatantly and flagrantly defying the law and breach such esteemed levels of trust, everyone else has to worry about what is going on in their case behind closed doors.

After all, the crimes were confessed three years ago and we still have no prosecution efforts .

Unfortunately the staunch refusal to adjudicate the issue properly disparages the Dept of Justice of DE extensively, puts Delaware at risk of bankruptcy due to the possibility of laws being changed to halt Delaware's Corp dominance, where the haughtiness thereof has fostered arbitrary & capricious reasonings, rulings and corruption that was reported on several years ago by the UCLA Law Professors Book, Courting Failure - How Competition for Big Cases is Corrupting the Bankruptcy Court.

The eToys saga confirms Law Professor Lynn LoPucki's book tenfold.

If Delaware loses its' corporate dominance it will also lose half its annual budget.

All for the sake of protecting one law firm from prosecution or investigation.

More than 100 felony violations have occurred, involving multiple states, multiple cases, multiple firms, multiple years, with more than 34 acts of false affidavits already confessed, as that perjury assisted more than $300 million in fraud, while bribery, intimidation of victim/witness, destruction of evidence, willful circumvent of Code/ Rule, Conspiracy, MisPrison of a felony and many other statutory violations, including Breach of Fiduciary Duty with the other multiples also giving extensive grounds for RICO.

This may be the largest case ever, of the tail wagging the dog right into the realm of the arcane and self destruction.

Simply amazing.

Sincerely
Laser Haas
